DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on April 24, 2008 has been entered. Claims 1-31 are pending. Claims 1-17 are cancelled by the applicant. At this time, claims 18-31 are rejected.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 18-20, 24-27, and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mankoff (US 2002/0116271 A1), and further in view of Cronce (US 7.032,240 B1)

a. Referring to claims 18:

i. Mankoff teaches in a system for coupling a hand held electronic reference product having an encrypted database file and a file system to a PC having a reader so that the PC can process the database file (see Figures 1-2 of Mankoff), the security validation subsystem comprising:

(1) a serial identification number for one of said hand held product and said file system (paragraph [0032] of Mankoff),

(2) a first voucher in said database file, said first voucher based on said serial identification number (paragraph [0032] of Mankoff), and

(3) a second voucher in said product at a location outside of said database file, said second voucher based on said serial identification number (paragraph [0032] of Mankoff),

(4) a comparator program within the PC reader to read and compare said first and second vouchers to provide a validation signal if said vouchers meet a predetermined correspondence comparison criterion (paragraph [0032] Mankoff),

(5) said validation signal permitting decryption (e.g., encryption scheme) by the PC of said database file (paragraph [0032] of Mankoff).

ii. Although Mankoff teaches the system for coupling a hand held electronic reference product having an encrypted database file and a file system to a PC having a reader so that the PC can process the database file (see Figures 1-2 of Mankoff), Mankoff is silent on the capability of showing the PDA or handheld device included a serial identification number (if indeed is not inherent). On the other hand, Cronic teaches this limitation in column 11, lines 35-38 of Cronic.

iii. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to:

(1) have modified the invention of Mankoff with the teaching of Cronic for authorizing the use of protected information and, in particular, to a portable authorization device (commonly known as a "dongle") for authorizing a host system to use protected information (column 1, lines 15-19 of Cronic).

iv. The ordinary skilled person would have been motivated to:

(1) have modified the invention of Mankoff with the teaching of Cronic to provide a portable authorization device that offers a high level of security to prevent unauthorized access to the authorization information when stored or being transmitted (column 3, lines 37-40 of Cronic).

b. Referring to claim 19:

i. Mankoff further teaches:

(1) said vouchers are based on a serial number in said file system (paragraph [0032] of Mankoff).

c. Referring to claim 20:

i. The combination of teaching between Mankoff and Cronic teaches the claimed subject matter. Mankoff and Cronic further teaches:

(1) said vouchers are based on a serial number of said hand held product (paragraph [0032] of Mankoff and column 11, lines 35-38 of Cronic).

d. Referring to claim 24:

i. Mankoff further teaches:

(1) said predetermined criterion is identity between said vouchers (paragraph [0032] of Mankoff).

e. Referring to claims 25-27 and 31:

i. These claims consist the security validation method of providing access by a PC to an encrypted database file stored in a hand held electronic reference product, said hand held electronic reference product having a file system to implement claims 18-20 and 24, thus they are rejected with the same rationale applied against claim 18-20 and 24 above.

4. Claims 21-23, 28-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mankoff (US 2002/0116271 A1) as applied to claims 18 - 20 and 24 above, in view of Cronic (US 7.032,240 B1), and further in view of Kobayashi (US 6,708,182 B1).

a. Referring to claims 21-23, 28-30:

i. Although the combination of teaching between Mankoff and Cronic teaches the claimed subject matter, they are silent on the capability of including the voucher (e.g. message format) in the header field. On the other hand, Kobayashi teaches this limitation in column 2, line 57 through column 3, line 14 of Kobayashi.

ii. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to:

(1) have modified the invention of Mankoff with the teaching of Cronic for authorizing the use of protected information and, in particular, to

a portable authorization device (commonly known as a "dongle") for authorizing a host system to use protected information (column 1, lines 15-19 of Cronce).

iii. The ordinary skilled person would have been motivated to:

(1) have modified the invention of Mankoff with the teaching of Cronce to provide a portable authorization device that offers a high level of security to prevent unauthorized access to the authorization information when stored or being transmitted (column 3, lines 37-40 of Cronce).
